CALIFORNIA ELECTIONS DATA ARCHIVE

INTRODUCTION

The California Elections Data Archive (CEDA) is a joint project of the Center for California Studies and the Institute for Social Research, at the California State University, Sacramento and the office of the California Secretary of State. The purpose of CEDA is to provide researchers, citizens, public agencies and other interested parties with a single repository of local election data. With over 6,000 local jurisdictions in California, the task of monitoring local elections is nearly impossible for individuals. CEDA addresses this problem through the creation of a single, cost-effective and easily accessible source of local election data. CEDA includes candidate and ballot measure results for county, city, community college, and school district elections throughout the State. CEDA thus represents the only comprehensive repository of local election results in California and one of a very few such databases on local elections in the U.S.

How the CEDA Data is Collected and Reported

Election data are collected periodically throughout each calendar year. This enables CEDA to incorporate results from special elections as well as all regularly scheduled elections. Election results from counties, cities, and community college and school districts are entered in the CEDA database from which three standard CEDA reports are generated. These reports include:

- County Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elected county offices; vote totals and text for county ballot measures.
- City Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elected city offices; vote totals and text for all city ballot measures.
- Community College and School District Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elective community college and school district offices; vote totals and text for all district ballot measures.

Ballot measures for all jurisdictions are coded according to type (e.g., charter amendment, taxes, bond measure, initiative, etc.) and to topic (e.g., education, public safety, governance, etc.).

THE CEDA PARTNERSHIP

THE CENTER FOR CALIFORNIA STUDIES

Located at California State University, Sacramento, the Center for California Studies is a public policy, public service and curricular support unit of the California State University. The Center's location in the state Capital and its ability to draw upon the resources of the entire State University system give it a unique capacity for making contributions to public policy development and the public life of California. Center programs cover four broad areas: administration of the nationally known Assembly, Senate, Executive, and Judicial Administration Fellowship Programs; university-state government liaison and applied policy research; civic education and community service through forums, conferences and issue dialogues; and curricular support activity in the interdisciplinary field of California Studies.

INSTITUTE FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH

Established in 1989, the Institute for Social Research (ISR) is a multidisciplinary institute that is committed to advancing the understanding of the social world through applied research. The Institute offers research expertise and technical assistance serving as a resource to agencies, organizations, the University and the broader community. Services provided by the Institute include research and sampling design, measurement, coding and data entry, computer assisted telephone and field interviewing, mailed and Internet surveys, focus groups, data base management, statistical analysis and report production. ISR has completed numerous projects with more than 50 federal, state and community agencies, several private firms and many administrative units of the university. Faculty affiliates of the Institute offer specific content expertise in a wide variety of disciplines, including the social sciences, health and human services, engineering and education.

CALIFORNIA SECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State is, among other duties, California's chief elections officer with the responsibility of administering the provisions of the Elections Code. The Secretary must compile state election returns and issue certificates of election to winning candidates; compile the returns and certify the results of initiative and referendum elections; certify acts delayed by referendum, and prepare and file a statement of vote. Recent legislation permits but does not mandate that the Secretary of State compile local election results.

TRENDS IN LOCAL ELECTIONS: 1995-2011

CEDA now encompasses 17 years of election data, including four gubernatorial election years (1998, 2002, 2006, and 2010), four presidential elections (1996, 2000, 2004, and 2008) and nine odd-numbered years devoted to local races. The 2011 election had 172 local ballot measures and 1,602 candidates in races for local offices. This report begins with an overview of some of the multi-year election trends then continues to a discussion of the 2011 contests.

BALLOT MEASURE TRENDS

Each year, California voters are asked to consider a number of governance issues and to choose among candidates vying for public office. Within local elections, there appear to be consistent features at all local election levels across elections over the 17 years of CEDA data collection. Other election characteristics seem to vary considerably from year to year, however. This variation is particularly noticeable between on-year (even-year) and off-year (odd-year) election cycles. In the following section, the patterns and trends seen in local elections during the 17 years of CEDA data collection are summarized.

Trends in the Number, Types, and Topics of Local Election Measures

As noted in previous reports, there is a clear trend with the number of local ballot measures offered to voters “piggy-backing” on state and national elections. On average, there were approximately two and one-half (2 ½) times as many ballot measures in even-years (588) as odd-years (236). The percentage of ballot measures passing increased by nine percent compared to the previous odd year election in 2009. Passing percent for ballot measures increased from 63 in 2009 to 72 percent in 2011; but the overall percentage of ballot measures passing remained at 63 percent.

- Among all the various types of ballot measures, charter amendments continued to have the largest percentage of measures passed, with more than three-quarters (77%) of charter amendment measures passing during the 17-year period. Through the first 16 years of CEDA the second best success was among bond measures. However, with the addition of the 2011 election cycle recalls have now become the second highest percent passing among all measure types at 69 percent. Recalls were closely followed by bond measures with two-thirds (67%) passing. However, during the past 17 years, recall measures only constitute four percent of all measures, whereas bonds constitute slightly more than one-quarter (26 %) of all measures. In terms of passage rates, following bonds were; ordinances (61%), taxes (55%), and initiatives (49%) (See Trend Table A).
- Across the three government levels—county, city and school district—at which data is collected, the largest average yearly number of ballot measures were seen at the city level (201; 50%), followed by the school district (136; 34%) and county (65; 16%). However, following the trend of previous years, school districts had the largest percentage of measures passing (66%), followed by cities (63%) and counties (57%) (See Trend Table A).
- Figure 1 displays the trends for ballot measures and the percent of measures passing from 1995-2011. As can be seen in the green trend line representing the number of measures (See Figure 1), the actual number of ballot measures cyclically varies substantially between odd and even years; however, the dashed green trend line in the figure reveals a slight downward trend in the number of measures over the period. By contrast, the orange line representing the percentage of measures passed shows much more stability over time and the dashed trend line reveals a movement toward an increased percentage of measures passed during this timeframe. Thus, while we're seeing a jagged trend toward slightly fewer measures, we're also witnessing a gradual increase in the percentage of those measures passing.

During the 17 years of CEDA data collection, the number of ballot measures in odd-years peaked in 1997 with 342 measures. The current 2011 election saw 172 measures—the smallest in the history of CEDA data collection in an odd-year election. Interestingly, while the raw number of ballot measures was the lowest seen to date the passage rate for the 2011 elections cycle was 72 percent which is the second highest pass rate in the 17 years of data collection and 11 points above the average for odd-year elections and nine points higher than the passage rate of measures overall.

- Among the eight topic areas for local ballot measures, education issues continue to be the most common ballot measure area, with slightly more than one-third (34%) of all measures between 1995 and 2011 focused on this topic. Education measures occurred at twice the rate in even versus odd-year election cycles. The number of education measures has exceeded the number of measures dealing with other specific topics. (See Trend Table B).
- Earlier years' data have been re-coded to capture revenue measures. With this revision revenue represents 12 percent of the total ballot measures in local elections. In the 2009 election cycle revenue measures jumped to 29 percent of local election ballot measures from the mid-teens seen in the previous two years. However, in 2011 revenue has dropped five percent below its average rate (12%) to seven percent of all measure topics (See Trend Table B).
  - In 2011, among all county measures, revenue issues accounted for about 11 percent; but among city measures, revenue accounted for about 30 percent of measure topics.

- Between 1995 and 2010 61 percent of revenue measures passed. However, nearly three-quarters (74%) of revenue measures passed in 2011. The 2011 passing rate for revenue measures is third only to the 2001 and 2008 election cycles where 87 and 77 percent, respectively, of all revenue measures passed.
- Since the 2005 election year, no revenue issues have been seen at the school district level.

Figure 2 provides an overview of the average (mean) number of local ballot measures and the percent of those measures that passed in each of eight topic areas for the past 17 years (1995-2011). Interestingly, with the exception of general services measures, the rank ordering of the most frequent ballot topic areas (education, governance, revenue, land use, public safety, public facilities, and transportation) and the rank ordering of the passing rates for ballot measures by topic area (governance, education, revenue, land use, public safety, transportation, and public facilities) is nearly parallel. That is, the most frequent topics of measures are also the topics that pass most frequently.

Figure 2: Average Number of Local Ballot Measures Per Year and Percent Passing by Topic for the Past 17 Years

- The level of ballot measures also appeared to have little overall impact on the passing rate for various governmental levels. County measures continue to show the lowest passing rate at 57 percent overall, with school district measures having the best passing rate at 66 percent (See Trend Table B).
- As reflected in previous reports, county measures showed the greatest disparity in passing rates between odd and even-year elections, faring much better in odd-year elections. County elections witnessed a 17 percent better passing rate for tax propositions, a 34 percent better passing rate for recall measures, and a 25 percent better passing rate for bond proposals in odd-years versus even-years (See Trend Table A).
- Among the six types of ballot measures identified in the CEDA data, charter amendments, recalls and bonds had the highest pass rates, 77 percent, 69 percent and 67 percent respectively, while initiatives and taxes had the lowest pass rates with 49 percent and 55 percent passing (See Trend Table A).

Trends in Bond and Tax Measures

Bonds and tax measures each make up slightly more than one-quarter of all measures at 26 and 29 percent respectively, and a little more than one-half (55%) of all ballot measures over the 17 years of election results tracked by CEDA. Ordinances and charter amendments, affecting policy shifts in local government, constituted another one-third (34%). Initiatives and recalls continue to account for only six percent of total local ballot measures (See Trend Table A).

- The overall percentage of local measures devoted to taxes during the past 17 years has been gradually trending upward. This trend continued in 2011, although the percentage of tax measures increased to 44 percent from 34 percent in 2010, although still off its all-time high of 51 percent in 2009 (See Figure 3).

- School districts remain responsible for the vast majority of bonds placed before voters—about 93 percent over 17 years of data collection. Bonds continue to make up slightly less than three-quarters (71%) of the six types of measures in school district elections.
- In the 17 years that CEDA has been collecting data, bond measures had much higher rates of passage than did tax measures. With the 2011 election, the average pass rate for bonds remained unchanged, some 12 percent above taxes at 67 and 55 percent respectively,
- Another trend observed during 17 years of CEDA data collection is that pass rates for tax measures are consistently higher in odd-years than in even-years—an average of 61 percent in odd-years compared with 52 percent for even-years. As noted above with regard to general pass rates, counties saw the biggest differences between pass rates for taxes in odd versus even-years, with an average pass rate of 56 percent in odd-years and 39 percent in even-years. The discrepancy for odd and even-years increased slightly for cities with the 2011 election—an average 62 percent pass rate in odd-years and a 56 percent pass rate in even-years. Tax measures for school districts also pass at higher rates in odd versus even-years.

Through 2011, school districts pass, on average, 58 percent of tax measures in even-years and 62 percent in odd-years (See Trend Table A).

- On the other hand, on average, pass rates for bond measures appear better in even-years than in odd-years (69% vs. 61% respectively). However, while bond measures are considerably more likely to pass in even-years versus odd-years for cities (64% vs. 52%) and in school districts (70% vs. 61%); they are more likely to pass in odd-years rather than even-years for counties (75% vs. 50% respectively) (See Trend Table A).

Trends in Community Services Districts and County Service Areas Measures

Community Service Districts (CSDs) and County Service Areas (CSAs) were introduced just before the turn of the new century as an accommodation to the tax restrictions posed by Proposition 13. Portions of a county could form a special district and agree to tax themselves to provide services that the larger county population as a whole might not support. CEDA began tracking community service district ballot measures in 1998. Despite considerable fluctuation in the number of CSD/CSA measures during the subsequent 14-year period, speculation that the number would increase over time has not been supported by the trend data (see the dashed trend line in Figure 3 below). As seen in Figure 3, there have been a vacillating number of CSDs/CSAs measures during this period; however, there has been a sizeable two-thirds decrease in the overall number of measures from 1998 to 2011.

- As discussed in previous trend summaries, one important question is whether CSD/CSA measures lose effectiveness in terms of their passage rate as they become a larger percentage of all county measures. This year's data provides additional information to consider in this question. First, although the percentage of measures for CSDs/CSAs varied up and down through the 2005 election, the overall trend since 2006 has been downward—essentially these measures are accounting for a smaller and smaller percentage of all county measures. However, due partially to the third smallest number of county measures in 17 years of CEDA, CSD/CSA measures accounted for 50 percent of all county measures. The 2011 percentage of CSD/CSA measures is only the fourth instance of CSD/CSA measures constituting at least 50 percent of all county measures (1999, 2001, and 2005 being the others). In all four instances the number of county measures was less than the average of 65 county measures per election cycle (See Table A). Moreover, the percentage of these measures and their passage rates seem to be synchronized (except for 2003 and 2007) (See Figure 5 below).

- In the 14 years of CEDA data on CSD/CSA elections (1998-2011), 288 ballot measures have presented CSD/CSA issues across all 58 counties. However, use of CSD/CSA measures varied widely among these counties. Eight counties accounted for over two-thirds (70%) of CSD/CSA-related measures—Contra Costa (24), El Dorado (42), Kern (17), Marin (44), Riverside (19), San Diego (20), San Luis Obispo (20) and Siskiyou (12). By contrast, 47 counties have had 5 or fewer CSD/CSA measures on their ballots during the 14-year period (See Trend Table C).
- In the years since their inception, the principal type of CSD/CSA measure has involved taxes (199; 69%). Interestingly, another funding mechanism, bond measures, has only appeared as CSD/CSA proposals five times (1% of the total measures). After taxes-- ordinances (29; 10%) and Gann Limit issues (29; 10%) were a distant second and third in terms of prevalence on the ballot. Recalls (20), bonds (5) and advisory measures (6) together only accounted for about 10 percent of the total number of measures during the 14-year period (See Trend Table D).
  - During the 14 years since their inception, CSD/CSA-related tax measures were passed slightly less than one-half (47%) of the time. As with other tax related ballot measures, CSD/CSA measures in this area were more apt to pass in the odd-year elections (60% pass) and more apt to fail in even-years (60% fail). Including this most recent year (2011) of data CSDs/CSAs have slightly higher passage rates for tax measures than counties, 47 and 41 percent respectively. On the other hand, cities do slightly better than CSDs/CSAs, passing 58 percent of their tax measures, while school districts enjoy the greatest success with these measures with a 60 percent passage rate (See Figure 6).

*Data available from 1998-2011.

- With the addition of the 2011 election year data, when we separate out CSD/CSA measures from all county measures, we see that non-CSD/CSA and CSD/CSA measures passed at an identical rate of 58 percent. However, CSDs/CSAs did much better than other county measures when the ballot measure involved taxes. Non-CSD/CSA county tax measures had a 41 percent pass rate, while CSD/CSA tax measures enjoyed a 47 percent passage rate (See Trend Table E).
- Public safety remains the most common focus of CSD/CSA measures, comprising slightly less than one-third of all measures (90 of 288 measures; 31%). General services (38) was the second most prevalent focus of CSD/CSA ballot measures, followed by revenue (38), governance (38), transportation (31), public facilities (31), environment (6), and land use (4) measures.
  - It is interesting to note that there were no governance measures in the first two years that CSDs/CSAs tracking was initiated (1998-99), but governance has appeared as a CSD/CSA issue in every election since then. Transportation measures were absent in 2011 for only the third time since 1998, and for the first time since 2003. Public facilities measures have appeared in all but five years (1999, 2003, 2008, 2010, and 2011). By contrast, land use, which also did not appear as CSD/CSA measures in 1998, has only appeared in two elections, 2000 and 2005. Similarly, environment measures have only appeared on CSD/CSA ballots during two election cycles, and have not appeared since 1999 (See Trend Table F).

CANDIDATE TRENDS

The addition of the 2011 data reinforces previous findings that stable patterns have emerged with regard to the number of candidates seeking offices, and distribution of candidates across the various local offices that are tracked.

- The total number of candidates for local offices (county boards of supervisors, other county offices, city councils, and local school boards) is consistently more than twice as high in even-numbered as opposed to odd-numbered years (See Trend Table G).
- In the 17 years of CEDA data collection, school district candidates have comprised just under one half (48%) of all candidates for local offices. As might be expected given the raw number of offices at various levels of local government, candidates for city offices make up about 38 percent of the local candidates, while the smallest percentage of local election candidates reflects those seeking county offices (about 14%).
- In the on-year elections, city candidates and school district candidates are fairly similar in terms of the number of candidates. However, with the exceptions of the 2011 elections, school district candidates have the largest number of candidates in the off-year election cycles where they make up more than half of the candidates on the ballot (See Trend Table G).
  - In all prior off-year elections the number of candidates for school boards was higher than the number of candidates for city offices. However, in 2011 candidates for school board contests reached their lowest level in the 17 years of CEDA and fell four candidates below the number of city candidates (730 and 734, respectively).
  - On average, the percentage of candidates running for county offices in even-years is approximately three times the percentage of candidates running for county offices in odd-years. County candidates averaged 18 percent of all local election candidates in even-years, but comprised only 6 percent of the candidates in odd-years (See Trend Table G).
- Over the 17 years of data collection, county candidates made up about 14 percent of all candidates in local elections (See Trend Table H).
  - Among candidates for county offices, 35 percent were running for county supervisor positions, while 22 percent were seeking CSD/CSA seats.
- On average, during the 17 years of CEDA data collection, slightly less than one-third (32%) of all candidates for local offices were incumbents (See Trend Table I).
  - About 34 percent of those seeking school district seats were incumbents.
  - Approximately 26 percent of those seeking city council positions were incumbents.
  - About 29 percent of those seeking county supervisor seats were incumbents, however, with the exception of 1997 (5 races) and 2011 (1 race), there are typically no races for county supervisor in odd-year elections.
- During the 17 year period, four out of every five (80%) incumbents running for reelection at the city, county, and school district levels won their respective offices (See Figure 5 and Trend Table I).
  - Eighty four percent (84%) of county supervisor<sup>1</sup> incumbents won reelection.
  - About 79 percent of incumbent city council office holders win their elections.

<sup>1</sup> This percentage is calculated on those years in which county supervisors were normally up for election. In off years there were either no candidates or a very small number running for vacated seats.

- Seventy-seven percent (77%) of incumbent school district candidates win their elections (See Trend Table I).
- In local elections, during the past 17 years, a little more than half (54%) of winning candidates are incumbents. This means that the local political arena is seeing a fresh mixture of individuals comprising local elected offices and bodies with each election cycle. Conversely, this also suggests that fears of control of these institutions by a group of long-term political incumbents may be overstated.
  - Sixty-two percent (62%) of winning candidates for county supervisor positions are incumbents.
  - About 50 percent of candidates for city council who win are incumbents.
  - Fifty-three percent (53%) of winning school district candidates were in office at the time of their reelection (See Trend Table I).

2011 ELECTION DATA

2011 BALLOT MEASURES

The 2011 election cycle presented California voters with 27 percent fewer measures than the average for odd-year elections. In 2011, a total of 172 county, city and school district ballot measures were presented. However, 124 of the 172 (72%) ballot measures were enacted, which is 11 percent higher than the average for odd-year elections since 1995. The high passage rate seems to coincide with the overall trend of fewer measures resulting in a higher rate of passage (See Figure 1).

Tax measures comprised the largest share of all 2011 measures. Of 172 ballot measures, 75 were tax measures, representing 44 percent of all measures. Tax measures passed at a rate of 67 percent, which is six points above the average (61%) for odd-year elections. Other types of measures in the 2011 election cycle included charter amendments (18%), ordinances (17%), recalls (9%), bonds (6%), and initiatives (1%).

In 2011 bonds constituted only six percent of all measures, the second lowest percentage in 17 years of CEDA data collection (2009; 3%). Only 10 bond measures, across six counties, were on ballots. However, fewer bond measures did not result in a lower than average passing rate. In 2011, 80 percent of all bond measures were enacted. The 2011 bond passage rate is 19 percent higher than the average for odd-year elections and 13 percent higher than the passage rate from 1995-2011 (See Trend Table A). In this instance the low number of bond measures demonstrates the trend presented earlier in Figure 1 of this report. Furthermore, bonds addressed only two topics in 2011, education and transportation. The lone transportation bond measure passed in San Francisco, approving $248 million in general obligation bonds for infrastructure improvements. Of the nine education bonds seven passed. Education bonds addressed infrastructure improvements and/or program improvements and/or retention of existing programs and staff. Education bonds ranged from $1.1 million for Bradley Union Elementary in Monterey, which passed, to $564 million for San Mateo Community College, which failed.

The 2009 CEDA Report noted the unusual number and high success rates of local tax measures. That year, local voters faced a total of 99 tax measures, of which 66 or 67% were approved. This pattern of approval for local tax measures continued in 2010 as well as 2011. Sixty percent of tax measures were approved in 2010 and 67 percent were approved in 2011 (See Trend Table A). However, this trend appears to start prior to 2009. Since 2007 tax measures passed at least 60 percent of the time. Separating years 2007-2011 from years 1995-2006, the overall passage rate for tax measures has increased from 50 percent (1995-2006) to 66 percent (2007-2011). Examining the differences in passage rates for tax measures requiring simple majorities (50%+1) and two-thirds majorities (66%) from 1995-2006 and 2007-2012 demonstrates a sizeable increase in passage rates across both majority types. For tax measures requiring a simple majority, the 1995-2006 rate of passage is 57 percent versus 72 percent for years 2007-2011. For tax measures requiring two-thirds majorities, the 1995-2006 rate of passage is 46 percent versus 59 percent for years 2007-2011.

In the 2011 election cycle, 75 tax measures were presented to California voters in 27 counties accounting for 44 percent of all measures, the highest percent since 2008 (55%) and the second highest in the history of CEDA. Of these 27 counties, six (Alameda, Contra Costa, Los Angeles, Marin, Riverside, and San Mateo) accounted for 56 percent of all tax measures. The number of tax measures does not seem to correlate, positively or negatively, with the number of tax measures passed in each county. For example, 19 counties presented two or fewer tax measures to voters. Of these counties, 11 had a passage rate of 100 percent, two had a passage rate of 50 percent, and in six counties no tax measures passed. Many counties presented voters with higher numbers of tax measures, such as San Mateo which presented ten tax measures, nine of which passed. Los Angeles presented nine tax measures, five of which passed. Alameda presented six tax measures to voters, three of which passed. Santa Clara presented five measures, all of which passed. Marin presented seven tax measures, all which passed.

Tax measures in 2011 were presented for an array of purposes and proposed to increase or reduce taxes on an array of different activities and actors. For example, the city of West Hollywood presented an ordinance which would have established a seven percent tax on “off-site advertising signs”. However, the ordinance was defeated by an 80 percent majority. The city of Holtville presented voters with two tax measures which would have reduced or eliminated the utility users’ tax over three years, both of which were defeated. A business tax measure in the city of Los Angeles proposed a $50 tax per $1,000 of gross receipts on marijuana dispensaries, which passed by a 59 percent majority.

Of the 75 tax measures, 43 were property tax measures, 27 (63%) of which passed. Many property tax measures were presented to provide additional funding for schools and to preserve government services. For instance, Davis Joint Unified school district proposed a two years property tax increase to offset reductions in state funding; the measure required a two-thirds majority and passed with 67 percent of the vote. Lucas Valley County Service Area No. 13 in Marin passed a property tax increase, to be phased in over four years, of $10 per living unit and $.022 per square foot of non-residential structures to maintain paramedic services. In addition to property tax measures, there were nine sales tax measures (6 passed) and seven utility tax measures (4 passed).

Each year California voters are presented with measures that are both interesting and unique, some examples include:

- Voters in Beverly Hills considered two measures to provide limited free parking in some city owned parking lots to residents, one of which passed.
- A city of Vernon charter amendment passed with nearly 100 percent of the vote eliminating the city council’s ability to raise their compensation beyond cost of living increases.
- A measure amending San Francisco county’s/city’s ordinances to redefine “campaign consultant”, require campaign consultants to file monthly electronic reports, and make changes to the fees paid by campaign consultants was defeated.
- The city of Vallejo passed a measure to tax marijuana dispensaries at a maximum rate of 10% and a base tax of $500 to fund city services.

County Measures. In 2011 there were a total of 20 county ballot measures across 11 counties. Of the 20 county measures, 16 (80%) passed while four (30%) failed. The bulk of county measures were tax measures (7) and ordinances (4). The most common topic was governance, with 10 such measures appearing on county ballots. However, in 2011 four-fifths (80%) of county measures passed, marking the highest passing rate for county measures through 17 years of CEDA data collection.

City Measures. Voters cast ballots on a total of 105 city measures of which 78 (74%) passed. The overall total of city measures is less than the odd-year average of 115 measures. The 74 percent pass rate is the highest in any year since 1995, again supporting the trend discussed earlier in Figure 1 of this report. The majority of city measures dealt with governance (49 measures or 47% of measures) and revenue (32 measures or 31% of measures). Common types of city measures were taxes (37 measures or 35% of all city measures) and ordinances (23 measures or 22% of city measures). There were also 28 proposed charter amendments, 82 percent of which passed.

School District Measures. The year saw a total of 47 school district ballot measures of which 30 (64%) were approved. In comparison, the average for odd-years since 1995 is 92 (62% pass rate) and for all years the average is 136 (66% pass rate). Therefore the passage rate for 2011 was above average for an odd-year election and comparable to the overall average. Tax measures accounted for 31 of the 47 school district measures and passed at a rate of 68 percent compared to the 62 percent average in odd-year elections.

2011 CANDIDATE ELECTIONS

A total of 1,602 Californians ran for local elected office in 2011, which is the lowest number for any year since CEDA has been active. Candidate elections took place at all levels of local government: cities, counties, and school districts.

County Races. California counties generally elect their officials in even-numbered years. Counties elect five-member board of supervisors (their four-year terms are staggered so not all seats are up each year) except the City and County of San Francisco (the boundaries of the City of San Francisco and the County of San Francisco are identical) which has an eleven member board. Counties also elect judges, sheriffs, clerks, district attorneys and members of the governing boards of community service districts (CSD), which are agencies of the county.

In 2011 counties held elections for 30 open seats across 16 counties. The most common of these were CSD/CSA Director seats, accounting for 25 (83%) of 30 contests. Of the 138 county candidates for county offices, 103 (75%) ran for CSD/CSA Director seats across 22 different CSDs/CSAs and 14 counties. However, the number of CSD/CSA candidates is the lowest total for CSD/CSA Director contests since 1998 when there were 22. Of the 103 CSD/CSA Director candidates 31 were incumbents, 23 of which won (74%).

Only five contests for county offices were held in 2011 outside of CSD/CSA Director contests. San Mateo had one County Supervisor contest, marking only the second time in 17 years of CEDA data collection that a County Supervisor contest occurred in an odd-year election. The City and County of San Francisco held three contests: mayor, district attorney, and sheriff. There were no incumbents for any of the San Francisco contests. The last of the non-CSD/CSA Director contests was held for the Midcoast communities in San Mateo, electing three members to community council offices. The Midcoast Community Council advises the San Mateo Board of Supervisors on issues relating to the Midcoast communities.

City Races. California cities elected mayors, council members, treasurers, clerks, and a handful of other officials in 2011. By far the most common contests were races for city council.

A total of 734 candidates ran for 199 city council contests, including eight recall contests. Twenty-four percent (153) of all city council candidates were incumbents and 79 percent of all incumbents won. Incumbent candidates accounted for 47 percent of all winning candidates in city council elections for 2011. Other city contests included city clerk/city assessor, city treasurer, mayor, and city attorney. Of these contests, only three of 31 (10%) incumbent candidates lost, although ten non-incumbent candidates also won.

School District Races. The 2011 election cycle had the fewest number of school district candidates in 17 years of data collection. There were 730 candidates for school board elections in 2011. Of these, approximately 34 percent were incumbents. Of the 245 incumbents, 200 or 82 percent won, while 191 or 39 percent of non-incumbent candidates won. In total, there were 203 school board contests across 19 counties. Incumbent candidates accounted for 52 percent of all winning candidates in school board contests, or 200 of 391 total winning candidates. 2011 marks the second highest percentage of winning incumbent candidates at 82 percent, with 1998 being the highest at 83 percent and the average from 1995-2011 being 77 percent.

Recall Elections

The California Constitution allows voters the possibility to remove a local elected official if a sufficient number of voters sign a recall petition and a majority approves the recall in a subsequent election. In 2011 Californians voted on 16 recalls across four counties (Contra Costa, Fresno, Los Angeles, and Mendocino) and three office types (city council, CSD director, and school board member). The number of recalls in 2011 (16) is slightly higher than the average for odd-year elections (15). The passage rate for recalls in 2011 was five points higher than average for odd-year elections (75% and 70% respectively). However, recall passage rates exceeded 70 percent eleven times in the history of CEDA.

Although the aggregate of 2011 recalls aligns well with past years of CEDA data collection, when recalls for city offices are separated from other recalls in 2011 interesting differences are observed. In 2011, ten recalls for city council offices were presented to voters in three cities: Bell, Hercules, and Point Arena. All ten (100%) of these recalls passed versus the 77 percent average rate of passage for odd-year city office recalls. Also, the number of city office recalls proposed (10) is twice the average for odd-year elections (5) and is the highest number of such recalls in an odd-year throughout the 17 year history of CEDA. Furthermore, at least 95 percent of all voters in the city of Bell approved recalls removing Oscar Hernandez, Luis Artiga, George Marabal, and Teresa Jacobo from the Bell City Council. These majorities are the highest in the 17 year history of CEDA for a recall election.

Investigations into the finances and pay of public officials in the city of Bell garnered local, state, and national attention. Among the examples of exorbitant compensation were the nearly $800,000 salary of the City Manager and the nearly $100,000 salaries of Bell's part-time City Council. These salaries are especially shocking considering Bell's population is 35,477 and the average household income is $46,158 or 45 percent below California's average household income (according to American Community Survey Five-Year Estimates).
